Charles-Town in South-Carolina, March 19, 1722.

TH E Chiefs of the four Indian Nations who lately came hither to wait upon his Excellency Francis Nicholson, Esq; Governour of this Province, to regulate the Terms of Agreement between them and the Inhabitants of these Parts, being preparing to return to their respective Countries, have taken their Leaves of his Excellency, who had the following Discourse made to him by one of the Indian Chiefs, viz.

The Discourse of Wootassitaw, Chief King or Governour of the Lower and Middle Settlements of the Charrikees, to O-sy-con-no-weeskee (good Speaker to all our Towns) our beloved Father Francis Nicholson, Esq;

WE look upon you as one of the great King's (of the other Side the Water) beloved Children, and understand that the great King has sent us these Goods which you have given us in his Name, and desire all our hearty Thanks to be returned to the great King for the same.

Now we desire you being the great King's beloved Child, that we have made you our great Governour in the great King's Stead, and shall now call you by a Name in our own Language, which is O-sy-con-no-weeskee to all our Towns.

We desire, as we take you for our Father and great Governour, that you will take that Care of us, that we may not want for a good Trade of Goods from this Country; and that for the future, we will be loving and kind to all such Traders as you shall send among us.

We have been down here some considerable Time, and shall be ready to depart from hence in two Days. We acknowledge to have received Abundance of Civilities, more than ever before, for which we return you all our hearty Thanks, and desire to know where we shall get Provisions to carry us home; and also we beg to know what Traders is now going up, and desire that Captain Hatton and Mr. Wigan may go with us in Company; for we hear the Creeks lie in the Road waiting for us, and do desire that we may be well supplied with Ammunition by the Traders that is now going up, that we may be at all Times able to defend ourselves and you.

Now we bid you Farewel, and at all times shall be sure and punctual in obeying your Commands, and do expect to hear from you every Opportunity that presents.

We asked you for some of our People to go home to see our great King, but have not had your Answer.

We desire to hear all News every Opportunity that presents, and shall at all times let you know what News there is among us.

That at all times when you write us any News, let us know if you are disturbed by any Enemies, for we shall be at all times ready to come down in a Body to your Assistance.

Eleazer Wigan, Interpreter.

Cádiz, June 23. The Spanish Squadron having entered the Straights has passed by Malaga, in order to cruise against the Algerines: Two Ships of 50 Guns each, with Quicksilver for the West-Indies, are in this Bay ready to sail, under the Command of Vice-Admiral Don Fernando Chacón, the Marquis of Casafuerte goes over with them to his Viceroyship of Mexico. The Superintendent Don Joseph Patinno sets out from hence in a few Days for the Court of Madrid. Several Regiments have been lately reformed, and all remains quiet in these Parts.

Hambourg, July 10. Letters from Stockholm confirm the King and Queen's Arrival at Medwig, whither several of the Courtiers are set out to attend their Majesties. The Marquis de Monteleone's Son obtained lately the King of Sweden's Permission to set out from Ysted with his Spouse, designing to embark for Holland. Major General Arnold, Envoy from his Danish Majesty to the Court of Sweden, is arrived at Stockholm. Advices from Copenhagen say, that the King of Denmark went lately to Jagerbourg, and gave Orders there to have the Castle repaired, by which 'tis conjectured the Court designs to pass some part of this Summer there. It is reported, that Sentence is passed upon Count Rantzau's Affair. Princess Sophia Hedwig begins to recover from her late Sickness.

Hague, July 14. Count Staremberg arrived here Yesterday in the Afternoon, having been 11 Hours upon the Rhine from Cologne hither: He purposes to embark for Great Britain as soon as the Wind comes fair; it being contrary now he is gone with his Spouse to Amsterdam to shew her that City. The States of Holland, were assembled To-Day, but have made no further Progress than formerly in the Matter of Farming their Customs Inwards and Outwards. As to the Business concerning M. Hogendorff, their Deputies have not yet made their Report to the States General; however, 'tis not doubted but it will be their Opinion that the Examination of that Affair should be sent back to the Council of State.

Paris, July 15. Letters from Rome of the 13th past give an Account, That on the 9th Cardinal Althan went to the Quirinal Palace, accompanied by a great Number of Prelates: He was received in the Apartment used for the Reception of Crowned Heads, by the Pope's Majordomo attended by the Swiss Guards: He was soon after introduced into the Consistory, where in the Name of the Emperour he did Homage to the Pope for the Investiture of Naples and Sicily granted to his Imperial Majesty: Which done, he returned to his own House, the Pope refusing to treat him in the Palace with the Honours usually shewn on such Occasions to a secular Viceroy; because it appears by the Pontifical Registers, that in former Times those Honours used to be paid only to secular Viceroy, not to Cardinals; for Instance, the Cardinal of Arragon, in the Time of Pope Alexander the VIIth, went from Rome to his Viceroyship of Naples without receiving those Honours. As for the Differences which have risen between the Pope and the Emperour, touching the Nomination to Benefices, it has been agreed to divide them between them, the Pope being to nominate to one Half and his Imperial Majesty to the other. The Court of Spain had not made any Protest at Rome, against the Pope's granting the forementioned Investiture to the Emperour. The following Extract of the Advices received by the Court relating to the Plague, has been communicated to the foreign Ministers.

The Gravadan. The Duke de Roquelaure in his Letter of the 3d of July writes, that the general Quarantain began the 1st of July and will end the 10th of August: All Dispositions were made for performing it with all Exactness. M. de Bernage in his of the 3d says, the good State of Health continued every where, and not one Person was sick of the Plague. M. de Rothe confirms the perfect perfect Recovery of all the Placces which had suffered by the Contagion, and says no Marks of the Distemper had appeared for a long time, which made it hoped the Quarantain would pass without any Accident.

Provence. M. le Beet writes the 1st of July, that on the 29th of June there remained in the Hospital at Marseilles 30 Persons sick who were likely to do well, and 14 who had recovered. There was no Danger to be apprehended from the Village of Bouffet and the Bastide of Bostrel. M. de Vibraye in his of the 2d, says he had an Account from Marseilles by a Letter dated the 24th of June, that in the four preceding Days none had fallen sick in the Town or in its Territory, and it was hoped the great Heats would have a good Effect.

The Comtat. The Marquis de Nogaret in his Letter of the 3d of July advises, that 10 or 12 fell sick at Avignon, and about 25 many died there, a-Day. The Distemper had spread into all Quarters of the Town; some Convents, and several Houses of Persons of Note, which had long kept free, were infected. The Forces posted along the Rhone and on the Islands, were very vigilant. M. de Vedrille in his of the 2d of July, sends inclosed a Letter from Avignon, confirming the bad Condition of that Town, the Poverty of the Inhabitants, and the Difficulty of keeping requisite Quarantains there for Want of Money. The Pope having ordered the Apostolical Chamber to lend them 100000 Roman Crowns, 25000 had been already remitted. The Abbot de la Fare has likewise sent a Letter from Carpentras dated the 26th of June, which confirms that 12 or 15 Persons died, and as many fell sick, a-Day, at Avignon; where the Division among the Magistrates, and the Communication among the People, would probably keep up the Distemper a long Time.
